Upon motion of Regent Ruiz, duly seconded, the recommendations of the Committee on Compensation were approved, Regents Island, Kieffer, Lansing, Mendelson, Reiss, Rubenstein, Ruiz, Schilling, Stein, Varner, and Yudof, (11) voting “aye” and Regents Brown, Newsom, and Zettel (3) voting “no” on item A. above, and Regents Brown, Island, Kieffer, Lansing, Mendelson, Newsom, Reiss, Rubenstein, Ruiz, Schilling, Stein, Varner, Yudof, and Zettel (14) voting “aye” on item B. above.

President Yudof introduced Chancellor-designate Nicholas B. Dirks, a distinguished anthropologist and historian.

Governor Brown welcomed Mr. Dirks to the institution. He recalled that during his earlier tenure as governor in the 1970s he appointed two anthropologists to the Board of Regents, Gregory Bateson and Theodora Kroeber. These two scholars made an enduring contribution, and Governor Brown expressed the hope that Mr. Dirks would follow in their footsteps.
Chairman Lansing expressed the general enthusiasm of the Board about the appointment of Mr. Dirks.

Mr. Dirks stated that it was an honor to take on the role of chancellor and this extraordinary opportunity. UC Berkeley is one of the greatest universities in the world, a public institution with a public mission that has complemented its mission to excel in academic research and teaching. Mr. Dirks noted that his father taught at the Yale Divinity School for most of his career but spent the final phase of his career as Vice Chancellor for the Humanities at UC Santa Cruz, where he worked with Gregory Bateson, who was indeed a great anthropologist. The University of California system is an inspiration to the field of higher education. Mr. Dirks recalled the national and international renown of the California Master Plan for Higher Education and President Clark Kerr’s vision for a comprehensive system of higher education, and stated that he felt humbled by the trust that the Regents and the University were placing in him and the opportunity they were according him to take on this role. The campuses and activities of the UC system are a reminder of the greatness of public service. Mr. Dirks expressed his view of the university as the last great utopia and stated that the University of California embodies this better than any other. He commended Governor Brown for his courage, and the people of the State of California for their faith in the University of California and in California higher education and for approving, in a historic moment, a tax increase to support UC. Mr. Dirks stressed that he was mindful of his and the University’s responsibility as stewards of public funds, tax dollars paid by California citizens, to ensure that the University is both excellent and accountable to its goals and keeps the public trust in it alive through its conduct and values. He thanked the Regents and the University again for this opportunity and acknowledged the accomplishments of Chancellor Birgeneau, who has left examples of inspired leadership.

The meeting adjourned at 12:20 p.m.
