Committee Chair Makarechian suggested that all items on the consent agenda be deferred, with the exception of item 2D above, Design Following Action Pursuant to the California Environmental Quality Act, East Campus Student Apartments Phase IV-B Project, Irvine Campus. This project was a joint venture and financing would be contributed by the other partner. In his view, it would be prudent to wait until the May meeting for the remaining consent items. By that time, it would have been possible to conduct financial stress tests. Most of these consent items required only preliminary funding. Committee Chair Makarechian underscored that he would feel uncomfortable about proceeding with these items without knowing for certain the status of UC cash and reserves.

Interim Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer Jenny stated that he understood Committee Chair Makarechian’s concerns regarding financial stress testing. All the chancellors had been considering this. He suggested that the chancellors could speak about the need to look at these investments over the long term. When the University emerges from the current healthcare crisis and the economic recession that would likely follow, it would find that it still has a shortage of housing for its students and it would need to expand its clinical care. Projects on the campuses already had teams assembled, and Mr. Jenny expressed concern about the consequences if UC paused these projects. The current downturn might have more magnitude than the downturn in 2008. Economic downturns typically motivate the issuance of economic stimulus packages, and these packages often focus on “shovel-ready” projects. The University wants to be well positioned to build itself out of the crisis when it passes. Mr. Jenny also cautioned that a pause could have a significant impact on projects with philanthropic support.

Committee Chair Makarechian agreed with Mr. Jenny on the fact that there was a shortage of student housing and hospital beds. He stressed that he was very uncomfortable not knowing the status of the University’s cash flow over the next three to six months. The medical centers have a goal for a certain minimum number of days’ cash on hand. By waiting until May, the Regents would have a better understanding of each campus’ status. At this time, UC should not spend hospital reserves without knowing what amounts of reserves might be required in the future or the status of financial markets or donors. It would be prudent to wait for 60 days. If the situation were to change and allow funding, some items could be approved at an off-cycle meeting before May. The chancellors themselves did not know what difficulties they might be facing.

Regent Estolano suggested that moving forward with item 2B above, Approval of the UC Merced 2020 Long Range Development Plan Following Action Pursuant to the California Environmental Quality Act, Merced Campus, would not have a negative financial impact. Regent Cohen asked that Interim Chancellor Brostrom be given the opportunity to respond to concerns that had been raised by speakers during the public comment period earlier that day.

Interim Chancellor Brostrom stated that the 2020 Long Range Develop Plan (LRDP) was an important element of UC Merced’s overall growth and would set a trajectory for the campus beyond the Merced 2020 Project. With regard to the LRDP, there had been extensive community engagement beginning the previous summer, with several rounds of written public comment and information sessions at the campus center in downtown Merced and on campus. The LRDP document has been made available. Interim Chancellor Brostrom reported that he had received a letter from Communities for a New California expressing the concerns that had been raised during the public comment period. Low vacancy rates and rising rental rates are issues of concern in Merced, and UC Merced is seen as contributing to this. He acknowledged that this was true but stated that UC Merced would take steps to mitigate this situation. The campus had added 1,700 new beds and instituted a two-year residency requirement which would move more students on campus. This LRDP contemplated adding 2,500 new beds over the next ten years. UC Merced had been approached by a number of developers who were eager to develop properties around the campus, especially multi-family housing. About 1,000 housing units have been proposed. The proposed LRDP would address the concerns that had been expressed and would help UC Merced mitigate the vacancy rate and rental rate issues.

Regent Weddle asked how UC Merced would continue to engage with the community on these issues. Interim Chancellor Brostrom responded that the campus has had very constructive relationships to date with the City and County of Merced and meets with them frequently. The speakers earlier that day were concerned about housing, but there are also concerns about transportation and mitigating vehicle traffic to the campus. UC Merced has ongoing meetings with official and community groups to hear concerns or receive constructive suggestions about how the campus can benefit the community. This was a constructive and consistent relationship.

Regent Weddle underscored that it was important for all UC campuses to be accessible to members of the surrounding communities, in order for UC to hear concerns and to be open to new ideas that might come from community members outside the University.

Chancellor May expressed concern that a delay of item F10, Amendment of the Budget, Hospital Seismic Upgrade: Stair Tower and Exit Corridor Upgrades, UC Davis Health Campus, would likely cause the campus to lose its contractor and result in significant increased costs and a series of “domino effects” for the project. This project was part of the effort to increase capacity at the UC Davis Medical Center, an urgent goal at this time. The hospital was currently oversubscribed, with the daily census at 110 percent. Chancellor May respectfully requested that the Committee discuss this item.

Upon motion duly made and seconded, the Committee approved the President’s recommendation in item 2B above, Approval of the UC Merced 2020 Long Range Development Plan Following Action Pursuant to the California Environmental Quality Act, Merced Campus, and voted to present it to the Board, Regents Estolano, Kounalakis, Leib, Makarechian, Napolitano, Park, Pérez, Sherman, Simmons, and Um voting “aye.”

Chancellor Hawgood asked why the Committee would discuss some medical center projects but not others. Item 2E above, Preliminary Plans Funding, Mission Bay East Campus Phase 2 (Block 34) Clinical Building, San Francisco Campus, would provide ambulatory surgery clinics, which UCSF believed were vital for the public good. Committee Chair Makarechian responded that the UC Davis agenda item F10, mentioned earlier, was in jeopardy of losing its contractor. Other items on the consent agenda did not appear to have the same urgency, since they concerned preliminary plans and design.
Chancellor Hawgood acknowledged that not acting on item E would not result in the loss of a contractor but would unquestionably delay the project.

Committee Chair Makarechian stated that a delay would last 60 days or even less and that an item could be approved off-cycle if necessary. He reiterated that it would be imprudent to spend funds at this point when needs for cash reserves in the coming months were not known. The University had not yet had an opportunity to perform stress tests, determine liquidity needs in the coming 30 to 60 days, and develop best- and worst-case scenarios. A delay might even work to the campuses’ advantage if prices and the cost of projects decreased. He suggested that the Committee might reevaluate the University’s capital needs at a future meeting. In two months the University would have more information.

Regent Zettel stated that it would be prudent for the Committee to hear the chancellors’ concerns about these items. Committee Chair Makarechian explained that he did not wish to take action on any items that required funding. He had reviewed the agenda items for any covenant, default, or loan issues in case of delay. Regent Kieffer stressed that it would be desirable to hear the opinions of the chancellors, the Interim Executive Vice President – Chief Financial Officer, and the President before delaying these items. Committee Chair Makarechian responded that he had already discussed all items with the chancellors in detail. There should be discussion of any item the delay of which would change a campus’ course of development.

Regent Estolano expressed concern about tabling item F5, Preliminary Plans Funding, the New Hospital at UCSF Helen Diller Medical Center at Parnassus Heights, San Francisco Campus, since it was her understanding that there was gift funding for the preliminary plans. Committee Chair Makarechian responded that the campus would receive a gift of $500 million for the entire project. The total project cost would be approximately $2.6 billion. Chancellor Hawgood confirmed that the gift was for the entire project and would offset funds being spent now, which were equity. The new UCSF hospital needed to be built by 2030. A delay of two months might not seem long, but, when coupled with other delays, might jeopardize the campus’ ability to meet this target date. Chancellor Hawgood stated that he understood Committee Chair Makarechian’s considerations. UCSF was reviewing its cash flows on an almost daily basis and would adjust its spending if it encountered problems. Chancellor Hawgood underscored the need to keep project teams together. A two-month delay would cause disruption. The money being spent by UCSF would be spent over several years. If UCSF became aware of serious problems in two months, it would stop spending at that point. He asked that the Committee approve the planning funding. UCSF would be judicious and careful about spending this money over the next 60 days. To stop planning altogether and disrupt teams and architect selection would lead to future conflicts and problems with ensuring project completion on schedule.

Chancellor Gillman expressed agreement with Chancellor Hawgood’s concerns and respectfully requested that, for the same reasons, the Committee consider item 2C above, Preliminary Plans Funding, Irvine Campus Medical Complex, Irvine Campus. The Irvine campus was making decisions day by day, ensuring that it was taking appropriate actions and deferring non-essential items under these extraordinary circumstances. Campuses were making decisions about projects that had to be continued. This project was important for the Irvine region and for the long-term financial well-being of the UC Irvine health system.
Chancellor Gillman would promise the Regents that, if it became clear in a few weeks or months that continuing this project was not appropriate, the campus would stop this activity. It would not be advisable for UC Irvine to stop every activity on the campus for a few months until there was more precise understanding of the current circumstances. This was the case for a range of issues on the campus. He urged the Committee to support this item, which would allow UC Irvine to continue to serve the people of Orange County by developing a new medical center for the region.

Regent Pérez suggested that the consent agenda items be deferred until the following day, in order to allow time for Committee Chair Makarechian to consult with the chancellors and others about how to proceed. Committee Chair Makarechian stated that he respected Chancellor Hawgood and Chancellor Gillman’s position but stressed that business as usual was shut down at this point. For some of these items, the campuses would be signing contracts with resulting obligations and the possibility of default; some activities could not simply be stopped. One solution might be to approve only a certain percentage of funds to be spent on each item in the next month or so.

Regent Sherman expressed agreement with Committee Chair Makarechian. It would be foolhardy to make big decisions and commitments at this point when the near future was not clear. Unless a delay of two months would result in greater cost, the University should put projects on hold until there was a clearer idea about the immediate future, especially commitments to long-term contracts. The world was changing and these were uncharted waters. It might be advisable to pursue some projects piecemeal in order to avoid losing key teams, spending the minimum in order to keep projects on track and not lose ground, but without overcommitting the University. Committee Chair Makarechian emphasized the need to understand the University’s cash situation; the Board might wish to assemble a group to study this question. Regent Sherman commented that UC needed to plan for the worst and hope for the best.

Regent Pérez reiterated his suggestion to defer the consent agenda items to the following day. Regent Leib expressed support for this suggestion.

Chancellor Khosla stated that he would yield to the comments that had been made and speak to Committee Chair Makarechian about the UC San Diego items and concerns about delay.

Regent Kounalakis expressed support for Regent Pérez’s suggestion that Committee Chair Makarechian consult with the chancellors and bring some items for the Committee’s consideration the following day. Committee Chair Makarechian stressed that there was no doubt that all the action items on the agenda were necessary. There was a need for more hospital beds and more student housing, but there was not a clear picture of whether or not the University had the required cash and financing available to pursue these projects and enter into obligations.
Upon motion duly made and seconded, the Committee approved the President’s recommendation in item 2D above, Design Following Action Pursuant to the California Environmental Quality Act, East Campus Student Apartments Phase IV-B Project, Irvine Campus, and voted to present it to the Board, Regents Cohen, Estolano, Kounalakis, Leib, Makarechian, Napolitano, Park, Pérez, Sherman, Simmons, and Um voting “aye.”

15. OVERVIEW OF UCPATH BENEFITS

This information item was not discussed.

Student observer Aidan Arasasingham expressed agreement with Committee Chair Makarechian’s concern about the need for financial stress testing to ensure that campuses have adequate liquidity during the COVID-19 crisis. He stressed that student support services are essential campus services, and the UC Student Association had requested that student services related to housing, labor, academic life, and health care be considered essential services. In the changed environment of COVID-19, students in the U.S. were seeking tuition remissions or discounts, and some nonresident students were contemplating declaring non-dependence and not paying tuition for the foreseeable future, given that the instruction they believe they would be receiving would be quite different from what it should be. The University should ensure that it provides student services and a high-quality educational experience so that students feel that the tuition they pay provides value for them.

The meeting adjourned at 2:45 p.m.

Attest:

Secretary and Chief of Staff
